Valley mourns leader death

Eldred Eulus Chance finally lost his 16 year battle with cancer Sunday and the valley one of its most dedicated public servants when he died in his home at 3767 First Street, Livermore.

He died, according to his family and friends, as he had lived, with great courage and faith and guided by the words of Winston Churchill, "Never, Never give up."

The 59 year old native of Smithville, Ga., who moved to Livermore almost four decades ago, spent most of his 39 years here in public service.

He arrived in the valley in 1936 and immediately became an active member of the community.

Mr. Chance interrupted his residence in the valley long he was noted as a enough during World War II to distinguish himself as a bomber Pilot with the United States Air

Although he became immediately active in community and civic affairs, Mr. Chance did not hold public office until 1953.

He served for two years on the school board at that time and returned for another four years from 1969 through 1973.

Though his interests and fields of service covered a broad spectrum, his especial interest was the welfare of children and he concentrated his efforts in the field of education.

But more than anything else compassionate man who would help his friends and neighbors in anyway possible whenever he

One valley resident recalled Monday that Mr. Chance had, while suffering from cancer himself, advanced money, interest free, to pay hospital bills for a friend whose daughter was suffering from the same illness.

He believed firmly his actions would speak for his affiliations and accomplishments.

Mr. Chance served twice as a representative to the Boy Scout Council, was a director of the Community Chest, a director of the Livermore Chamber of Commerce and a representative of the high school original study group for them. To you I say, humbly and unification.

Ten of his years in residence here he spent as a member of the Board of Directors of Zone 7 of the Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District. He served with the original board and was elected for a second term.

Just a little more than a week before he died Mr. Chance wrote a letter of thanks to his friends and supporters in the valley which served to a degree as his own epitath.

"There was a time when Livermore was built on a foundation of Integrity and Honesty and was a town going somewhere," he said in part.

"It was due to your efforts and surely you should be worthy of sincerely, thank you for your friendship and help over the last 38 years.

For the past 20 years Mr. Chance operated his own real estate firm at 153 L Street in Livermore

He and his family are members of the Asbury Methodist Church in Livermore.

Mr. Chance is survived by his wife, Edna, of Livermore, a son, thomas Eldred of Salinas, daughter, Mrs. Janet Buckley of Livermore, grandson, Christopher Buckley of

He also leave a sister, Mrs. Erianne Usery of Smithville, Ga., another sister, Mrs. Georganna Adams of Atlanta Ga., and a brother, Frank, of Atlanta.

Because of his lifelong interest in and efforts for welfare and education of young people, his family has established an Eldred Chance Memorial Scholarship.

Funeral services will be tomorrow at 2 p.m. in the chapel at Callaghan Mortuary, 3833 East Avenue, Livermore Friends may call there after 1 p.m. today.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers contributions in his memory be made to the American Cancer Society or to their favorite charity.

Private interment will be in Memory Gardens following the funeral service

Parness claims he initiated LLL letter

The imbroglio over the by Lawrence Livermore government employes. Laboratory personnel on civic and political matters became more entangled after Sunday's revelation by The Times of personal correspondence among Alameda County Supervisor John D. Murphy, Livermore City Manager Bill Parness, Dr. Richard Batzel. director the lab, and Livermore City Councilman Archer Futch.

Murphy sent "personal" letters to Drs. Batzel and Sessler (director of the Berkeley lab) asking them to clarify the labs' policy of granting time-off to employes for political and civic meetings.

ARCHER FUTCH

Drs. Batzel and Sessler responded "Personally" to Murphy, but the supervisor vowed to pursue the matter to Congress and the Atomic Energy Commission when the letter was let to the press.

The Times chased the matter after a call from Futch offered a then-unrequested response to Murphy's allegations.

Murphy, in his letter to Dr. Batzel, asked how employes of the lab are allowed to spend considerable time during the day attending meetings and espousing individual viewpoints when the same privilige is not extended to employes in the private sector.

Lab employes, Murphy individuals' supervzsors. expenditure of company time contends, are essentially > Dr. Batzel responded by saying the time is charged against accrued vacation time. and that some "professional employes" are given latitude in rescheduling their working hours.

> Most interesting, thinks Murphy, is a copy of a letter sent to Dr. Batzel by Parness, in which the city manager asks the lab to be lenient toward its employes who serve in civic offices.

> Parness, whose superiors are councilmen and lab employes Futch and Don Miller, insisted the letter's "initiation was soley mine," and that it specifically was not instigated or initiated by any member of the Parness insists that private companies have more lenient policies'toward their employes, and that the "heavy burden on the families" of the councilmen was his chief concern.

He added that he merely asked for "special consideration due these people," but admitted he had not sent letters to any other employers requesting like leniency, although he "wouldn" hesitate to" if the need arose.

Parness claimed to have noticed "reluctance" on the part of some councilmen to attend some meetings, and thought the letter might secure special consideration. A check with Sandia Corporation, named by Parness as more liberal in their employes' civic-policy, ilicited the fact that Sandia allows any employe - not merely professionals - as much as six days off per year for civic affairs, "if the request is made at the beginning of the year and approved by the individuals' supervisor," according to Don Wagner of Sandia. Time off granted 'professionals" at the lab is evidently done on a piece-meal basis and controlled by the Futch and Miller feel Murphy's move is political in nature and an attempt to silence those in opposition to Murphy's philosophies.

(Murphy, for example, voted n favor of Harlan Geldermann's proposed New Town development north of Livermore, while both councilmen voted "naye.")

JOHN D. MURPHY

ROGER E. BATZEL

Futch claims to have used "a lot of personal vacation time" to attend the necessary meetings, and considers Murphy's blast an "attempt to prevent these citizens from representing their constituents (which) strikes at the heart of our representative government.

Low key campaigns end as voters go to polls

An election that was supposed to provide this valley and the South County with "the hottest political contest in years," was being resolved today following one of the quietest campaigns in recent memory

Fifteen candidates, 12 of them Democrats, failed to ignite the electorate during six weeks of intensive but low - key campaigning that leaned heavily on the individual candidates own record, avoiding any controversial issue and avoiding also any clash of personalities. 'It's the quietest one I've seen in some 15 campaigns in which I have participated," admitted George Oakes, the veteran Hayward politician. Oakes, one of two Republicans in the race, blamed the "see no evil, speak no evil cloak that has been hung on all Democratic candidates" for the failure to generate "any kind of a real fight.

Joyce LeClaire, one of those Democratic hopefuls, was inclined to agree that "everyone played it rather cool," but she blamed "the somber mood of the voters" as dictating that low - key effort election effort. "People are more sophisticated, particularly since the McGovern - Nixon contest and more since Watergate. They can't be fooled anymore with wild promises from any one candidate.

LeClaire predicted that "elections will never be the same again," suggesting that the 15th Assembly District race was probably indicative of the "politics of the future.

Most seasoned observers are agreeing that "this one is a tossup." There are few solid bets on the results of balloting that started this morning, and winds up at 8 o'clock this evening. What is certain however is that something between 20 and 40 percent of the 15th District's 84,000 registered voters will respond to that ballot. Predictions of "as few as 4500 votes" as the winner's total are being offered by the candidates themselves.

Hayward has by far the biggest block of votes, but eleven candidates from that one city must divide up that electoral pot. Billed as a primary ballot, this first . round test is in reality a free - for - all. with voters allowed to choose from any one in that field of 15, regardless of stated party affiliation. This special election has another strange wrinkle, however. If no one candidate can garner 50 percent plus one of the total vote cast, then there will be a second ballot on March 4 . Qualifying for that election will be the top vote getter from the Republican, Democratic and American Independent parties. That means Lonnie R. Moore, the little - known AIP representative, is the only candidate guaranteed a place on that March ballot. while George Oakes is given an edge over Guy Puccio for the Republican spot on that second ballot. The guessing among Democrats is that Pleasanton's Floyd Mori, Hayward's Bill Vandenburgh and Union City's Dick Oliver have the best chance of topping that field of a dozen. But with something less than 6000 votes as the winner's pot, "anything can happen, and probably will," is one veteran politican's vxew.

view will start trickling in after 9 p.m. but final results, particularly in a close race, will not be known until around midnight, the registrar of voters says. Valley residents are invited to call The Times (462 - 4160) starting at 8 a.m. Wednesday for the final, official returns.

Sixty-four seventh and eighth grade students from Pleasanton Elementary School, along with eight parents and teacher, Mrs. Audrey Walker, spent a day at a student math conference in Oakland last week.

Approximately 1,600 students from the East Bay attended the annual conference at Laney College. It was sponsored by the Alameda-Contra Costa County Math Educators. The 120 math demonstrations were given by students for other students in groups of 20 to 40.

Twelve students from Pleasanton Elementary gave 45-minute demonstrations in topics of mathematics.

For most of the group, the trip was a unique experience as it was their first trip on Bay Area Rapid Transit. They traveled by school bus to Bay Fair BART and by BART to Laney.

The teachers, who claim the district is "morally obligated" to give them 5.2 per cent increases that MESD could not give them last year, say they are asking only for a cost of living increase. They would base that on the Bureau of Labor Statistics figures, either for March to March or December to December. That atter figure is 12.5 per cent.

Also, many of the teachers in the district receive automatic increases for longevity or increased education. Last year, the district figured those amounts at between 3.7 to 4.5

Thus, the total amount of the package — including step increments, the 5.2 per cent left over from last year and the cost of living rise — is approximately 21.7 per cent (using the December to December cost of living

On top of these items, teachers are asking for a reduction in maximum class size at all levels, which thus would reduce the overall average class size and either require more teachers or less students.

Teachers also indicated that busing might be one solution of the class size problem.

Also, the MEA proposal contains an article that would allow a teacher, with the approval of his or her principal, to give out any kind of grades he wished. In other words, a teacher could give out pass - fail grades rather than the traditional "A - B - C" grades.

Another item relates to Days of Personal Observance as holidays. Teachers feel that agnostics or atheists are discriminated against because they never get days off for their own holidays while Christians get to celebrate theirs. These Days of Personal Observance would come on top of regular

Claims policies discussion set

PLEASANTON - Pleasanton Elementary School District trustees will take initial action on two policies covering claims for money or damages and professional growth at Wednesday's regular board Trustees convene at 7:30 p.m. in the District Educational Center, 123 Main St.

The board is also scheduled to act on accepting a bond covering a disputed claim, receive reports on the status of the Mentally Gifted Minor program, food services and review results of an educational needs survey at Vintage Hills School. A report on parent involvement, communications and facility usage at Vintage Hills is also on the agenda.

The bond covering a disputed claim results from a contract let to Michoff Construction Company to do general site work at Fairlands School in the spring of 1972.

According to the district, a portion of this work was subcontracted to James Engineering Construction Co. of San Jose. Apparently the work was performed, according to the district, but Michoff failed to pay the subcontractor the amount due. As a result, a mechanic's lien against Michoff was placed to recover the funds requested. This is in the amount of $5,601.50. The district has been holding this amount since the lien was filed.

A bond covering Michoff Construction Company, in the amount of $7,002, has been posted on the approved Alameda County Counsel form, so that these funds may be restored to Michoff and that they, in turn, can then respond to the mechanic's lien. The district has been advised by County Counsel that this is now appropriate for execution.

Adult education adding classes

PLEASANTON — Though he might not want to admit it, Mike Connolly's job combines equal parts carny barker, PR man, psychologist and computer

As Director of Adult Education for the Amador women, all eager to climb under school district, Connolly and his the hood, take it apart and put it staff are committed to presenting those courses that will not only lead to graduation but satisfy the person out to raise a skill level.

At times it's like walking a tightrope with a barrel of monkeys under one arm and a canary in the other hand.

What he's got is not always what the public wants. Like the values clarification course that was offered the current winter tri-mester.

Apparently people are not in the mood to come out once a week and discuss contemporary problems. At least not in a classroom

So scratch the course. But there are others, many others, that could be offered in the dead of night at a well-known Sunol Boulevard treatment plant and Connolly would have to bar the doors to keep the mob out.

Bookkeeping, business machines, auto shop, painting, pottery making, Tole-decorative painting, macrame and upholstering are among those that would fit the above description.

Connolly once put together a course of instruction for an "Auto Shop for Women" course, believing five, maybe 10 at the outside would register.

What Connolly got was 40 together again.

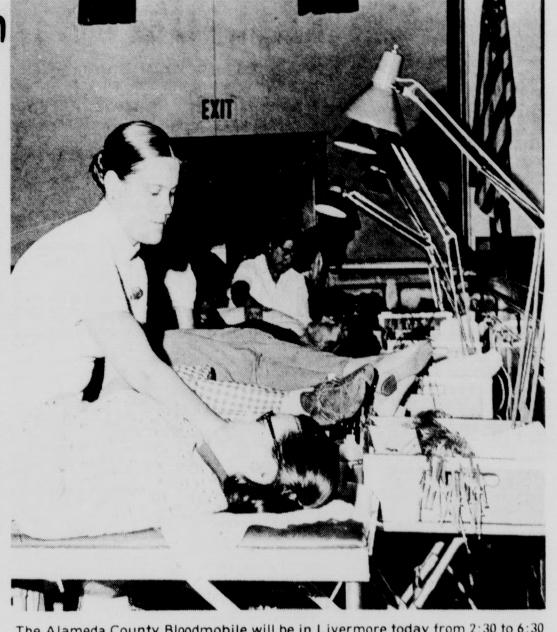

Partly with that experience in mind, Connolly is planning a 'how to prepare your kids for college" course. We know a lot of parents who would like to take such a class if only to see where they went wrong.

Also on the tentative schedule for a future tri-mester are a class in commercial cooking (designed primarily for those dealing with food preparation in cafes and restaurants), a class for mentally retarded adults and quilting. The latter would be held in Sunol.

Connolly believes the biggest enrollment for adult education classes comes during the September to December tri-mester. The third session for this school year begins next

Connolly advises keeping an eye out for the schedule of classes. Who knows, a class you always thought should be offered but were afraid to bring up just may be awaiting your registration.

MARC ELLIOT

Elliot believes an assemblyman should be a community leader, not an absentee official seen by the voters every two yars," Elliot emphasized. "His job is to represent the interests of the district in Sacramento.

He added, "As a community leader, he has an active role to play in the community. He should be trying to focus attention on local and district problems that need solutions, such as growth control, tranportation needs, health care for seniors, property tax relief and local projects to increase employment.

BILL VANDENBURGH Vandenburgh beireves, "We must re-evaluate our priorities and patterns of development in light of changing circumstances. Cheap energy and plentiful cash have given us a far-flung network of suburban communities that are totally dependent on the automobile and that have gobbled up thousands of acres of once-productive agricultural land

He considers it essential to revitalize and restore older cities. "Cities already have public transportation now being sought by suburban communities; they have the jobs and they have good and

Board to hear report on valley campus

The progress of Chabot College's Valley campus will be a topic of interest tonight when the South County Community College District board meets at :30 p.m. on the Chabot campus in Hayward.

The Valley campus is going up north of Livermore just off Interstate 580. The first buildings are due to be completed in time for the spring quarter, March 31, to serve local day and evening students who are tired of commuting through the Dublin Canyon for

In addition to discussion of the Valley campus, Chabot College trustees have a long list of agenda items including award of a contract for Valley Campus's fifth building; approval of bills and payroll employment of students and

and should be restored.

State and federal funds are used to build the roads, sewer plants, and other public works that permit community development. Vandenburgh believes the state should use such funds to promote redevelopment of existing areas before continuing past practices of building further and further away from central cities.

Fred Furth, newly elected Democratic National Committeeman, has announced his support for Vandenburgh. Furth called Vandenburgh an 'active Democrat' who has been the Alameda County Chairman for Don Edwards, Alan Cranston, Wilson Riles and on the Steering Committee for Jerry Brown. Democrats have long turned to Bill Vandenburgh for leadership in the South County and N. County.

DOUGLAS MORRISSON Morrisson said in a press release, "I will not be just your assemblyman, I will be your representative. I know the key to serving all people is to be available to them." He added. "I pledge to personally meet with you on Friday and Saturday mornings on a rotational basis at the city halls throughout the district. You may be assured I will not move my residence to Sacramento.

Morrisson added, "During my tenure of 12 years as an elected official, I have served the needs of people by working for senior citizens, the handicapped, the family unit, as well as the preservation of our national resources and historic buildings.

GUY PUCCIO

Puccio has condemned the 'last minute smear tactics' of his Republican opponent George Oakes. He was referring to an 11th hour "comparison" brochure distributed by Oakes that "intentionally omitted and distorted portions of his background to improve the appearance of" his opponent's record.

Puccio continued. "It is now very clear why Oakes was unwilling to agree to the formation of a Local Fair Campaign Practices Commission that I proposed at the outset of this special election. The committee would have prevented the mailing of such half-truths and distortions of the facts.

With the passage of time this intermittent stiff neck becomes an almost constant ache in the posterior cervical region. By the time the cervical pain has assumed proportions that awake concern in the patient, nerve root compression symptoms are often present. This may first be manifested as pain in the shoulder, and next in the arm, until the entire nerve root dermatome is involved, extending into the hand. The nature of the

pain may vary from a dull ache to sharp lan-cinating, electric-like stabs. Coughing, sneezing, straining, or changes in position of the cervical spine may aggravate the pain. A history and physical findings typical of cervical involvement are usually corroborated by x-ray changes in the cervical spine. X-rays may reveal one or more of the following changes:

1. Narrowing of the disc space. 2. Osteoarthritic changes.
3. Straightening of the cervical spine.

4. Subluxations. I am not going to comment on the advisability of surgery for this condition, except to say that chiropractic has proven ever so effective in unlocking nerve pressure and restoring vital nerve flow. I urge anyone who has this condition or notices occasional tingling in the fingers or numbness or a hand that frequently goes to sleep to look into it and to seek proper and effective care as quickly as they can.

Kumparak home is happy marriage of old and new

Livermore's newest - just six months occupied - the Kumparak home radiates the warmth and charm of an old country farmhouse.

Its secret is the inspired and spirited avocation of its mistress, Joan Kumparak, who loves anything old and beautiful. Or potentially beautiful. Love and a lively imagination have rescued tarnished fixtures and broken tables from flea markets, old barns, and condemned buildings to transform them into things of beauty to grace a modern home.

No museum showcase of "period" rooms, Joan's home gathers old and beautiful objects, large and small, rustic or formal, 100-year-old or 40-year-old, decorative or simply interesting. The effect is a harmonious medley which creates an old-fashioned atmosphere in a home the Kumparak family finds very

"We try to use as many pieces as we can," Joan explains.

In the living room, a unique 1908 Victorian mantelpiece of rare bird's-eye maple adorns a modern wood-burning fireplace. Deep walnut molding and beams removed from the old Woolworth's store in Oakland enhance the high-beam

Although it is one of Lodge is once again in daily use. And an assortment of smaller antiques, attractively arranged on plaques and framed, accent the son's bedroom, the baths, and a nook in the living room.

Joan's favorite wood is oak, because it is easy to refinish with its open grain, and it is frequently used to make the simple more rustic objects in a style referred to as "primitive" (as opposed to ornamental). This style which Joan prefers to any other is most in evidence in stencilling using gold dust and velvet to impress a pattern over a black-brushed finish. The result is both striking, original, and perfectly in keeping with the mood created in other

A sharp eye for bargains and a determination to see each project through no matter how long or difficult, have earned for Joan many very valuable pieces, worth far more than her original investment. A spinning wheel bought for $10 could be sold for $100. Tables and grained, solid woods are no longer available on today's wood-scrimping market.

"An antique is by official definition any object over 100 years old, but items only 40 or 50 years old are a good investment for today's average buyer," Joan declares.

"Even if you don't like something old, its value is in the constant appreciation of antiques — they never depreciate — especially the value of beautiful wood.

"I started collecting items expressly for our new home about two years ago, and the price of antiques has sky-rocketed since then," Joan explains. "I could never afford to buy all the things I have collected in today's market.' Her motto now is "Never throw anything away! Many people with antiques for sale are well aware of their value, Joan says, although she has sometimes met a seller who knew nothing about an object except that it was "old." But Joan has had much experience in recognizing various styles, wood-grains, and in assessing antique values.

She admits beginners may find shopping more difficult.

Her advice to the novice is to "start with small things, something that you personally enjoy." She believes even a few antiques can be attractive accents to any decor.

"If you buy something and THEN try to find a place to put it, you'll end up with hodge-podge and a lot of things collecting dust in closets," she declares convincingly. Joan has always adhered to the belief that an antique should be purchased only after the homemaker has decided where the piece can be attractively displayed.

Her home, a happy marriage of old and new, is testimony to the success of this philosophy. But what does she planto do with the pair of cast-iron streetlights, purchased from Denny's Restaurant after six months of bargaining?

serve. So when you see your PG&E bill increasing...you get a little burned up.

You naturally expect your bill to go up when the temperatures go down. But this winter is costing you more than last because of higher rates which reflect higher fuel costs.

We don't like the situation either. Those PG&E rate increases the past two years have all been to offset the higher prices we, PG&E, must pay our suppliers for fuel oil and natural gas. Despite your efforts to conserve and our efforts to increase efficiency and cut operating expenses, you're probably paying more.

But you can hold down these cost increases in a number of ways by conserving gas and electricity. Here are some suggestions:

Wear a sweater indoors. You'll find that you can set your furnace thermostat at 68° and be comfortable—and you'll cut your use of energy for heating by as much as 15

Turn your furnace thermostat down or off before going to bed at night. Check your furnace filter and clean or replace it when necessary. A dirty filter makes your furnace work harder and wastes energy.

Use lower wattage light bulbs, except those used for reading. Turn off all lights you are not using, even if you intend to use them again a few minutes later.

Proper home insulation and weatherstripping can cut heating requirements up to 45 per cent.

FORMER TRI-VALLEY WARRIORS' COACH JOHN PHILLIPS He'll be replaced by Warrior guard Don Griffin

Rockets take 16-14 win in youth cage

Despite Phil Hampton's game high 10 points, the Dublin Youth Basketball Association Rockets hung on grimly to record a 16-14 win last week in 9-10 play.

Jeff Souza topped the winners with six points but the 76ers couldn't overcome an 8-0 first quarter deficit.

Gary Gonsalves pumped in 14 points to lead the Blazers past the Lakers 30-21 after the Blazers got off to a poor start. Bryan Matthews led the losers with six points, and John Howlett chipped in a like amount for the winners.

A tenacious defense allowed the Suns to burn out the Bucks 32-8 as Robbie Allen and John Hodson each tallied 14 points for the winners. Danny Bynum scored half of the losers' total.

After a scoreless first quarter and an 8-8 deadlock at halftime, the Knicks put it together and whipped the Sonics 22-12. Donnie Galli picked off game high honors with eight points for the losers while Kevin Earl and Jeff Roderick each dropped in six for the winners.

The 11-12 age bracket produced five routs, as the winner in each game had little trouble with the opposition. The Spurs set the pace of the competition with a ridiculously easy triumph over the Pacers. The Pacers could muster only two points in the first half while the Spurs poured in 26. Jorge Garratt pumped in 14

Pollsters drop Dons to second

Despite picking up a pair of wins in East Bay Athletic League play, Amador High dropped a notch to second in this week's East Bay Prep Writers' Association poll.

Oakland Tech, which had been in the first spot earlier in the year, regained the number one ranking by downing powerful Fremont last week. Tech's overall mark is 13-4. while the Dons are 12-3. Bishop O'Dowd, third ranked in the poll, has a 23-3 mark and has won 22 of their 23 games.

Alviso's 4 give Celts 43-42 win

Randy Alviso's four free throws in overtime sparked the Celtics to a 43-42 win over Lloyd's Bank in Livermore recreation basketball last week. Alviso, who tied teammate

Pete Tolman with 17 points, hit all four foul shots in the extra period. One charity by Tolman accounted for the Celts' fifth and deciding point in the nip-and-tuck contest.

Jim Cambridge, who finished with a game-high 30 points, pumped two overtime field goals to keep Lloyd's close.

Pizza Arcade held on for a 38-35 win over McGregor's National Reserve Life, thanks to Ted Anderson's 14 points. The loser's Lane Fabian led all scorers with 17 decided to give the opponents a chance to go wrong. He drew trumps with two leads and threw West in with his last diamond. West had to decide between a club and a heart lead. Had he guessed the club South might well have gone down two, but as happens so often, West guessed wrong and led the four of hearts: This took care of all South's problems in hearts and clubs and he made his rather doubtful contract.

94CARDSens*e44

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Pass 4 A

Things started out badly for South. East's king of diamonds held the first trick and he returned the eight. South could play either the jack or nine of diamonds, but whichever one he played would be covered by West. So South could count two diamond losers, plus the ace of hearts and a possible club. He could handle that club loser by leading a heart toward his hand and finessing the 10 spot. If East held the jack, South's contract would come home; if East didn't, South would be only one down because while he would lose two hearts he would be able to get rid of his losing club later.
